What's on the Scene for Fall and Winter Wardrobes?

Voice Publications' Women's Expo and Fashion Gala

Clothing styles for fall appear to be classy, classic, and a bit manly... but feminine manly. Hats are making a huge comeback! Also, a lot of fashions will have an emphasis on the waistline, so belts are definitely in.

We will once again be seeing shirtwaist as well as classic sheath style dresses.

In other words, good taste is back! Yea! Dresses will be well fitted... not skin tight.

For those of us who have entered the age of wisdom and who no longer have model perfect bodies through the ravages of age and gravity, this is really good news. The hem line is mid-knee to an inch or two below the knee. John T. Malloy would be proud!

Colors for fall appear to be a bit blah... brown, black, taupe, grays and dark blues for daytime wear. Use color in your evening wear this fall... bold, bright color in deep jewel tones or go soft with blues and grays and create yourself a very feminine, very soft, Hollywood-of-the-past look.

It's July and we have already starting pulling together the fashions and jewelry

for the October 20th

Vegas Voice, "Another Year of Fabulous," fashion show for women over 50. I am very excited that we will have the fall line of Doncaster fashions as one of our featured collections.

Doncaster is a quality clothing line noted for sophisticated styling and elegant fabrics, offering fashion options for real women with real bodies, not little tiny, emaciated looking stick people who are usually featured in fashion showings. Doncaster's unyielding dedication to elegance and style continues to be the driving force behind its brands.

The New York-based design team develops three distinctive collections a year exclusively for Doncaster, using the very finest fabrics from around the world and drawing inspiration from both contemporary trends and timeless classics.

If you really like something in the show, you'll be able to talk to Doncaster fashion consultant, Lois Sagel, right after the show in her booth at the Expo. The level of service provided by a Doncaster consultant like Lois, coupled with the quality, styling and fit of the clothes, allows the company to offer its clients a premier product and a highly personalized shopping experience. When Lois introduced me to Doncaster years ago, I was excited because they have two lines... one off the rack and one that is custom made.

I could actually order the style I wanted in one of the other fabrics they offer and they would make the suit, dress, pants, etc. for me, plus Lois is so talented at putting together the accessories for the ensembles that I never look like I am wearing a cookie-cutter outfit. That's because

I'm not!

We are looking for real women (over 50) to model these clothes, so if you have an interest, I certainly hope you will contact me at judi@thevegasoive.net and give me your phone number, size, etc. Then we will arrange to meet.

During the early part of October, I will be working on stage techniques with the women who are modeling in the show. This is going to be so fun. I hope you'll get involved.

As many of you know, I taught modeling for 17 years when I owned Universal Models, so here's your chance for a free modeling lesson or two from someone who knows what she's doing. Me! LOL

While our show is geared for women over 50, yes, you certainly may invite your daughters and granddaughters to participate in "Another Year of Fabulous."

Judi Moreo is the Special Events editor of The Vegas Voice. She will be coordinating and commentating the "Another Year of Fabulous" fashion show and Women's Expo to be held at the Gold Coast Hotel and Casino on Saturday, October 20th, 10 am - 3 pm.

Judi is the author of "You Are More Than Enough" and its companion, "Achievement Journal."

Fundraiser to Benefit Wounded Military

Vegas Voice Special Events Editor Judi Moreo with local entertainer Richel Kompst. Last month at Sun City MacDonald Ranch, Richel presented her very funny and entertaining one woman show, "Blame It On The Walleye," as a fund raiser for the Las Vegas Sew Girls.

The Sew Girls is an organization made up of caring women who sew adaptive and custom made clothing for the wounded military. Since 2008, these women have designed, sewn, and donated over 3,000 articles of clothing to military hospitals.
